

Evaluation Report

The SUCOMINNO Erasmus+ training course, held in Poland and Cyprus, was a well-organized and inspiring experience that successfully combined creativity, collaboration, and meaningful learning. Through a wide range of interactive workshops, outdoor activities, and cultural exchanges, participants explored key topics such as sustainability, circular economy, and eco-innovation in an engaging and non-formal way. They developed valuable skills including teamwork, creative thinking, communication, and environmental awareness, while also improving their English and connecting with people from different countries.

Favorite activities included the PULCHRA game, the "Green Project Planning", hikes in Pissouri, astronomy night, and creative sessions like making posters, videos, and performing short theatrical scenes. Cultural nights and city visits offered opportunities to experience local traditions, food, and history, enhancing the intercultural dimension of the programme. Many participants shared that the project helped them step out of their comfort zone in a positive way, building confidence and creating friendships.

Overall, SUCOMINNO was a meaningful and transformative journey that empowered European citizens to become more informed, open-minded, and responsible with a stronger commitment to sustainability and innovation.
